

The Terrible Two's

Four score and seven, wait wrong speech buck-o. Two years ago to the day, some crazy guys met over some cheap Chinese food and thought that it would be completely insane to turn what they loved doing into a business. How right they were! Two years later things could not have been any crazier here at Rizon.

While we're still a toddler in the broad sense of things, Rizon has done quite a bit of growing up. From building up a clientele (who we consider to be our friends), and building mentalities, to acquiring a floor of office space, even our reputation has grown a bit too around the town. With growing up comes hurdles, spills, fears, trepidation, excitement, success, and satisfaction. We look forward to these moments, and hope to share many more birthdays with you.

To our friends and family, we thank you for putting up with our temper tantrums and growing pains, and hope that you all will stick along for the rest of ride, though we can't promise you that things would get any less crazy.

Cheers!
